BERLIN - 100 Nike by Katrin Fridriks

19.01

Circleculture agency

N°1 German fashion magazine Grazia commissioned talented contemporary artist Katrin Fridriks to create, in collaboration with the brand-leader Nike, a very limited series of sneakers, becoming genuine & must-have pieces of art.

For Berlin Fashion Week (17/22 Jan.12), with an innovative concept, she reinvents sneakers common use in transforming them into customize magazine holders.

As background & alluding to urban art: spray cans used to paint all shoes with a well-defined colorimetry: silver, gold, copper... reminding of Katrin's metallic "Leak of Info" solo show at Circleculture gallery (Berlin/2011).

Fridriks affixes her unique signature through acrylic paint giving an organic dimension to the so-sculpted shoes. Her unseen colourful drippings, as lava flows across rocks, cover each Nike shoe. In yellow & black dominance, with blue and red shades, all perfectly aligned, as fresh news to read, spreading like wildfire so as to be the first. At the speed of light, every colour slices through the others, finally leaving a mark, allowing reader thoughts to capture the nature of this new Odyssey.

The designed-shoes are totally unique & trendy art objects, ready to be hung on a wall to carry your most fashionable magazine.
